

It was an interesting start to Bath Classics Binegar trial, on arrival a small tree had fallen across the entrance and the toilet was on its side. The only way in was from the A37 as the other 2 roads were blocked with fallen trees.

However once in the quarry we were sheltered from the worst of the wind but not the rain.

27 intrepid competitors arrived to tackle the 10 sections which were all in the quarry due to the woods being hazardous with falling branches.

The results show there was some keen competition on the A and B routes with just the odd dab making a difference. Ade Darks Tiger Cub was playing up before the start so Tim Lovell loaned him his TRS which proved to be winning combination.

In reality everyone was a winner for turning up and riding in those conditions.

Special thanks must go to the observers who turned up and braved storm Bert. Last and definitely not least thanks to the Bath trials team who throughout the year have worked hard to try and make the trials interesting for the wide range of abilities that compete at our events.

That's it for this year, Bath Classics next event is on the 23rd of March.
